DEMOCRATIC TICKET.

For State Senator,

HON. W. H. MILLER.

For Representative,

HARVEY HELM.

For Superintendent of Public Schools,

W. F. McCLARY.

Like the woman who swearing that she'd ne'er consent consented, the administration seems to have agreed to a compromise on the silver repeal bill. The Washington dispatches say that instead of an unconditional repeal to take effect at once, a compromise has been effected which will allow the present compulsory purchase of silver to continue a year. It is said that a majority of the Senate has signed an agreement to that effect, but the obstructionists say they will continue their dilatory tactics and unless the rules are amended, as Senator Hill proposes, it seems that they can do so indefinitely. A full and fair discussion of measures of public importance is always desirable, but when men are permitted to stand up 14 hours and consume time by reading and hearing read page after page of stuff not at all germane to the issue, simply to thwart the will of the majority, which ought always to rule, it is high time something was done to stop it. Give us the cloture, give us a second Czar Reed, give us anything, even the devil, but let us have a legislature that will legislate.

We learn from the Elizabethtown News that Mr. George L. Willis is now the presiding genius of the "In and About Kentucky" department of the Courier-Journal. It is evident that it is some one pretty well up in the politics of the State if he is a little off on the progress of Stanford and the fact that she has put on city airs. Mr. Willis' experience in reporting the constitutional convention and a legislature or two has made him familiar with every man of note in the State and he is making good use of his knowledge.

WILL DUTTON, who was hanged at Cartersville, Ga., for the murder of a woman, displayed a wonderful amount of nerve for a man guilty of so cowardly a crime. As he rode to the gallows he called upon the crowd to buy a pamphlet containing his picture and his biography and busied himself taking in quarters for it until the rope was adjusted round his neck. His object in raising money was, as he expressed it, "to keep my body from the infernal medical students." He didn't seem to think or care that his soul was destined to hell-fire.

The Louisville Commercial utters a libel on the State press when it prints over the items culled from its rural exchanges, a one galled fellow sitting on a soap box and writing for dear life on an old goods box. The artist who designed this rare gem hasn't been about, or he would know that country editors live in palaces, sit in richly upholstered chairs and write on handsomely carved tables. If he doesn't believe it, call at our sanctum and he'll be convinced.

The Court of Appeals reversed the decision of the Merrion circuit court, which acquitted G. W. Murphy for giving away liquor on election day or night, holding that the law prohibits the giving, selling, or loaning of intoxicating liquors on those days, which last for the 24 hours and not for the hours only in which the election is held. The liquor in the case referred to had been given at 10 o'clock the night of the election.

JUDGE HINES offered for office once too often, and was defeated by Mr. Cox for representative from Franklin county. It is a considerable fall in ambition from a judge of the Court of Appeals to a member of the Legislature and worse still to fall to get the lesser place, but heitch for office is so strongly developed in some men that they will, like the old maid, "take anything, Lord."

The name of Fetter's Magazine will be changed with its December number to the Southern Magazine. Gen. Basil W. Duke will continue as its editor-in-chief and Mr. Opie Read as associate. This magazine has grown in public favor from the start and is now a fixed and prosperous institution. It represents the best culture of the South and deserves the success it is achieving.

The World's Fair may not close on the 30th, but its principal attraction will shut up shop at 11:30 that night. We refer to the Kentucky building, which with its remarkable contents, is the pride of every true citizen of the Blue-Grass State. Alas and alack that they can not be perpetuated for the benefit of future generations.

There is a lawyer in Cincinnati by the name of Louse. Wonder if he ever gets caught.

HON. W. H. MILLER is letting no grass grow under his feet in the race for State Senator. He has been all over the district once or twice and is now in Casey whooping up the boys. He can not do it all, however and we appeal to the democrats to awake to the importance of the occasion and present a solid front to the common enemy. Lincoln county is the only reliably democratic county in the district and she must show that she appreciates the compliment so unanimously extended to her worthy son. Let us all do our duty and Mr. Miller will be elected with many votes to spare. His election will also insure that of another of Lincoln's worthy sons, Hon. D. B. Edmiston, who is a candidate for clerk of the Senate, and with so much at stake can any true democrat falter in his duty?

HON. THEODORE HALLAM was overwhelmingly defeated for the Senate in the Covington district Friday by Hon. Wm. Goebel. Hallam, who is one of the brainiest men in the State, seems to be unfortunate in his races. He rarely ever gets what he goes for and this time he was worse off than ever. We renew assurances of our most distinguished consideration to him and the Covington Commonwealth and extend our most heartfelt commiseration. The result seems to have both paralyzed Editor Emerson's tongue and pen, as he hasn't had a word to say since.

AFTER making a losing fight for two months, the L. & N. shopmen have surrendered unconditionally, but too late to get the places they voluntarily left, except in a few instances. Under the prevailing conditions the strike was ill advised, but by behaving themselves for the most part in an orderly manner they retained the respect of the public. A half of a loaf is better than no bread, we fear many of the strikers will find before the winter is over.

By a vote of 39 to 22 the Senate confirmed the nomination of Mr. VanAlen to be ambassador to Italy. Mr. V. A's principal qualification for the office is that he gave $50,000 to the campaign fund of the last presidential election, but that's more than many of the appointees have.

We extend congratulations to Editor Daniel M. Bowmar, of the Woodford Sun, on the acquisition of a girl baby to his household. Col. E. Polk Johnson, of the Frankfort Capital, kept his promise and sent him the most appropriate article that the circumstances could suggest.

With a net profit during fiscal year just ended of $4,000,000 it looks like the Pullman Palace Co. should pay its own porters, but it doesn't. After the company bleeds the traveler all it can, these voracious gentry get the rest of his pile.

NEWSY NOTES.

—The gold reserve in the National treasury is down to $81,700,000.

—Judge Ira Julian was nominated for mayor of Frankfort by a majority of 51 votes.

—Judge C. R. Brooks, of Mt. Sterling, will be appointed assistant district attorney for Oklahoma.

—Louisville's total number of registered voters this year is 35,131, which is 1,801 below last year's registration.

—The boiler of the steamer Bellevue exploded at the Cincinnati wharf, killing one man and probably fatally wounding others.

—Walter Thomas, a negro at Columbus, Ohio, has asked for divorce. He charges his wife with cruelty and says he is afraid of her.

—Rev. Wm. Pettit, the Indiana wife murderer, who was recently sentenced to the pen for life, died on the day the Supreme Court granted him a new hearing.

—Buffalo Bill has bought $10,000 residence in North Platt, Neb., very near the spot where he killed his first Indian, and there he intends to spend the rest of his life.

—A wild-eyed report comes from Nashville that all the railway employees from car greasers up will strike Dec. 6 if their wages are not restored to the figure before the reduction.

—One thousand soldiers are reported to have been killed or wounded recently in a battle between Government troops and insurgents in the Brazilian State of Rio Grande do Sul.

—The State Central Committee which met at Frankfort to decide the contest for the Senatorial nomination in the 34th district, unanimously declared Mr. John P. Sayers the nominee.

—A closed bank in Arizona has issued the following notice: "This bank is not busted; it owns the people $36,000; the people owe it $55,000; it is the people who are busted when they pay we'll pay."

—Ten prisoners escaped from the Covington jail by sawing the iron bars of their cells. It was discovered after it was too late that they did their sawing while they were singing the most solemn hymns.

—The Kentucky State College football team defeated the University of Tennessee team at Knoxville Saturday 56 to 0. The Central University boys defeated the Georgetown also by a large score.

—The 164 Kentucky State Banks report that Sept. 23 their combined capital was $15,855,429.58; surplus fund $3,451,714.66; deposits $21,763,749.90. During the last three months six failed and five new ones were organized.

—The cholera is raging at Leghorn, Italy. The percentage of deaths is 65.

—Fire destroyed a block of business houses at Clinton, Sunday. The loss is estimated at $50,000; insurance $19,500.

—An elevator in the Manufacturers Building at the World's Fair fell 200 feet Saturday night with 13 passengers. Fortunately none were injured as the car stopped 50 feet from the floor.

—At Georgetown, Sunday, George C. James, a policeman, and Lloyd Cole, a well-known young man of the city, engaged in a street duel, the former being instantly killed and the latter fatally wounded.

—Four society men of Pittsburgh have been found guilty of stealing $515 from Mrs. Rachel Logan. They entered her house and tortured her in different ways until she told where her money was concealed.

—Two heavily-loaded passenger trains on the Pittsburgh, Fort Wayne and Chicago road collided in a fog at Monroeville, Ind. Three persons were probably fatally injured and several others were more or less hurt.

—Dr. Hourigan of Marion, whose numerous trials for manslaughter extended over a period of nearly six years, was finally landed behind the bars of the Frankfort penitentiary Saturday. He killed his brother-in-law.

—The colored woman, Amanda Redd, who was ejected from a Cincinnati Southern train because she would not ride in the car provided for her race, has brought suit for $5,000. She is a dress-maker and stands highly.

—The Mason & Ford Company has accepted the offer made by Treasurer Hale, as a committee, for the shop plant in the Frankfort prison, to be used as a chair factory, and the transfer of the property to the State will be made at once.

—The New York World asks the democratic U. S. Senators: "If a majority of 30 can not pass the Voorhees bill, how can a majority of five pass a tariff reform measure?" It can not be done as long as the idea of "Senatorial courtesy" remains unchanged.

—Saturday was the worst day for the yellow fever at Brunswick, Ga. The warm weather following the rain and cool spell brought the disease rapidly to the front. There are now 258 cases under treatment, 60 whites and 198 colored. The outlook is not cheerful for 20 days yet.

—Doc Turner, who is to be hung at Wise, C. H., Va., next Tuesday, is preparing his own funeral sermon, which he says he will deliver from the gallows. One of his requests is that his body shall be kept above ground for three days to be sure that life has left it.

—Upon the confession of James E. Stone, of Daviess county, Ind., he and six other men are lodged in the Indiana Prison South on the charge of committing the robbery and murders were planned months before, but protests that he took no part in the horrible crime.

—A dispatch from Helena, Montana, states that the negro Charles P. Grove, who claimed to be a millionaire miner when he came to Lexington, this State, to marry, and who has gained some newspaper notoriety by his alleged wealth, is not rich by a long shot and the wonder at his home at Helena is how he got enough money to make the trip to Kentucky.

—The most horrible railroad accident of the year occurred near Battle Creek, Michigan, Friday, on the Chicago & Grand Trunk railroad. The bodies of 26 victims, burned beyond recognition, have been taken from the debris. It is thought this is all the dead, but many more are seriously injured. The wreck was caused by the collision of a World's Fair special and the Pacific express.

—The Trenton battle monument, commemorative of Gen. Washington's memorable encounter with the British and Hessians, was dedicated last week. Numerous governors of States were present and among the participants were several descendants of the heroes in whose honor the tall shaft was raised. Two miles distant from the monument the famous crossing of the Delaware by Gen. Washington and his men took place.
